TO VISIT MOSGOW PRESIDENT

Washington (UPI) - President Nixon announced Tuesday he will follow his visit to China with a summit conference with Soviet officials in Moscow in late May. "Neither trip is being taken for the purpose of exploiting the differences that may exist between the two nations," Nixon said.

The overriding purpose of the Moscow trip - first ever undertaken by a U.S. president - will be to further a negotiated settlement of Soviet-American differences and lessen the chances of war between the two nuclear superpowers, Nixon told White House

The official invitation was extended to Nixon by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko during a White House meeting Sept. 29, after a year of discussions within the U.S. government and in contacts with Soviet officials about the possibility of such a trip.

Although Nixon did not say so directly, the timing of the Moscow summit obviously was intended in part to allay Soviet fears of a budding conspiracy between Peking and Washington, and to maintain the momentum toward a U.S.-Soviet detente on arms control, the Middle East and other issues.

His national security affairs adviser, Henry A. Kissinger, will fly to Peking soon, possibly next week, to make formal arrangements for the first U.S. presidential visit to the Chinese capital sometime before May 1. Nixon said Kissinger and Secretary of State William P. Rogers will accompany him both to Peking and to Moscow for what he termed "a very busy working visit" with a minimum of Nixon said the Russians preferred a meeting in June or July, but this was ruled out in favor of the earliest possible date - the latter party of May - to avoid entanglement with the U.S. presedential campaigns and election in November.

Nixon said the trip, which was announced simultaneously by Moscow radio, had been considered desirable by both sides "once sufficient progress had been made in negotiations at lower levels."

Later, at a ceremony on Capitol Hill honoring Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, the President said, "We want some limit, if we can safely have it, on the burden of arms we bear." But he cautioned that the United States must negotiate agreements from a position of strength because "strength, reasonable strength, and a willingness to negotiate is the road to peace."

Nixon, who commented in the past on the futility of summit conferences without thorough preparation, said Tuesday that both trips next spring would be preceded by intensive discussions at lower levels to make sure they will "serve a useful purpose." ## Acheson Dies; Postwar Policy Architect

Washington (A) - Dean Acheson, 78, secretary of state during the most turbulent years just after World War II and a major architect of much of U.S. cold war strategy, died Tuesday evening. The 78-year-old Acheson served as secretary of state under President Harry S. Truman from 1949 to 1953, the years of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the Japanese peace freaty and the beginning of the so-called McCarthy era.

Family members said Acheson was found slumped over a desk in his study. He was pronounced dead by the family physician. Friends said Acheson had a history of hypertension but had not been in ill health recently. He is survived by the widow and three children, Jane (Mrs.

Dudley B. W. Brown), David Campion Acheson and Mary Eleanor (Mrs. William F.

At Truman's Independence, Mo., home, Bess Truman, wife of the former president, said he would have no immediate comment on the death. She said simply "Oh, no," when informed Acheson had died and said of her husband, "I know he'll be very disturbed" at the news.

The Connecticut-born Acheson carried an aristocratic manner that often alienated his foes, and even some friends. But he, nonetheless, achieved great success in the government in a career that reached from a monetary-policy negotiator under Franklin D. Roosevelt to secretary of state under Truman.

In between, he practiced law briefly. But spent most of his time in various positions within the State Department, finally succeeding General of the Army George Marshall as secretary in 1949.

Upon taking over as the nation's chief diplomat, Acheson immediately assumed a tough stand concerning what was thought at the time as aggressive, expansionist Soviet policy. He implemented the strategy of alliances ringing the Soviet Union and its East European allies, including the formation of NATO, still the key defense pact for the United States and Western Europe.

Marshall Plan Exponent At the same time, Acheson promoted the continuation and strengthening of the Marshall Plan, the European economic recovery program put forth by his predecessor at the State Department.

But in spite of his hard-line attitude toward international communism, his hardest fight involved charges he was soft on communism at home.

He came under near savage and personal attack for his friendship with Alger Hiss, the high State Department official who ultimately was sentenced to jail for perjury after he

Frenchmen Sees 'True Revolution' In The U.S.

By MILAN WALL Star Staff Writer

A Frenchman who says the world's only "true revolution" is happening in this country stopped off at the University of Nebraska Tuesday to talk about his theory.

"A revolution is much deeper" than "revolutionary events," Jean-Francois Revel told an audience of about 150 at the student union on NU's Lincoln campus.

"We think we have a revolution when we have revolutionary events," he said, such as violence and civil war.

"In fact," he said, "those events are not necessarily connected with revolution."

Touring The U.S.

Revel is on a tour of the country promoting his new book, "Without Marx or Jesus: The New American revolution," a French bestseller which has hit the bestselling charts in the U.S. since it was published here last month.

The French writer and philosopher says in his book that the world's only true revolution began in the U.S. in the mid-50s with civil rights marches, sped on through the '60s in student unrest and coneducation, the system of crime and punishment, nationalism and militarism. —criticism against the means Earlier, Revel told newsmen that he believes the U.S. is unique among modern nations in terms of revolutionary potential because many factors in America's growth happened concurrently.

He said economic and educational growth were parallel, as were advances in media and in other areas of science and technology.

Corn And Sorghum Hurt By Poor Weather

Poor weather in September hurt Nebraska's corn and sorghum crops and caused a decline in the estimated productions of both crops, Department of Agriculture estimates showed Tuesday in the final USDA crop estimate before major harvesting operations

The corn crop estimated for Nebraska is 465,885,000 bushels, down 2% from last month's 476,847,000 estimate while the sorghum crop is estimated at 117,953,000 bushels, down from last month's 124,140,000 estimate.

Although the corn crop production would be a record topping the 529,660,000 bushel mark set two years ago, the yield is now set at 87 bushels, down two bushels from last month and eight under the record 93 bushels set two years ago.

Sorghum Estimate

The sorghum estimate compares with a 142,052,000 record production in 1966 and the latest yield estimate is 57 bushels, up six bushels from last year but far under the record 76 bushels set two years ago.

In addition, he said, the winds "probably took a little larger toll on the milo crop than they did on the corn."

Meanwhile, Beller's office said 5% of the corn crop is harvested compared to one per cent normal.

Double The Rate

The sorghum crop is also going at more than double the normal harvest rate with 40% of the crop in to 18% normal.

Besides milo and corn, Beller said the soybean crop estimate dropped from last month although sugar beets increased.

The soybean crop is now estimated at 16,650,000 bushels, down 11% from last month and the smallest crop since 1965 although the average yield of 25 bushels per acre would be three bushels up from last year's yield.

Set In 1969 Soybean records were set in 1969 with total production of 25,661,000 bushels and a yield of 33.5 bushels.

Sugar beets are now estimated at 1,418.000 tons, up from last month's 1,377,000 prediction with the yield expected to 17.5 tons per acre, up half a ton from last month.

Soybean combining is reported to be 45% complete, ahead of the 42% normal figure. Dry bean harvesting is nearing completion in some western areas although rain is causing some problems. Most Seeding Done

Winter wheat seeding is generally completed with good stands in western areas and some very uneven stands reported in eastern areas.

Bayh Withdrawal Ends Well Organized Effort

Sen. Birch Bayh's withdrawal as a presidential candidate Tuesday abruptly ended what appeared to be one of the best organized campaigns for Nebraska's 1972 Democratic presidential primary election.

Although Bayh never formally declared his candidacy, he was clearly in the race until his wife became ill with cancer, prompting Tuesday's withdrawal.

The Indiana senator had visited Nebraska three times in the last year, carefully cultivating support for his impending entry into the primary con-

Activities Cancelled

Bayh's fourth visit was scheduled for Thursday, when he had planned a full day of activities in Lincoln and Omaha, including four major speeches.

Lancaster County Democratic Chairman Charles Pallesen Jr. was on the telephone Tuesday attempting to find a substitute speaker for the party's candidates day dinner at the Radisson Cornhusker Hotel Thursday night.

Another Lincoln appearance at the Lincoln Central Labor Union's annual COPE banquet at East Hills was also cancelled.

Pallesen said he still hopes to land a "name" speaker for the party af-

Washington - President Nixon announced at a surprise news conference at the White House that he will go to Moscow, "independent of his proposed journey to the People's Republic of China," for a summit meeting with Sovlet leaders next May. (More on Page 1.)

Costly Cambodian Plan Devised

Washington - A costly program of "pacification" and other unconventional warfare strategies for Cambodia that will protect South Vietnam's western flank as American forces continue withdrawing from Indochina is said to have been designed by the Joint Chiefs of Staff, according to congressional sources.

They also have budget gimmicks to augment the funds Congress will be asked to provide for the plan. (More on page 30.)

Assembly To Convene

Karachi, Pakistan - A national assembly will be convened in Karachi on Dec. 27, follow ing by-elections, to fill the seats vacated after the army moved to crush the East Pakistan autonomy movement, President Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan announced.

India In Arms Buildup

Calcutta - Military equipment has been arriving in Calcutta by special freight trains every day for some time. The Bengali forces, who are fighting for East Pakistan independence, will reportedly receive the arms, and are believed to be preparing to step up their activities against the Pakistani army. According to reliable sources, India and Pakistan have reinforced their troops on both the eastern and western borders.

Court Nominations Due

Washington - The announcement of the selections to fill two vacancies on the Supreme Court will be made next week, President Nixon said. He did not rule out the possibility that one of the nominees would be a woman, and he said that Robert C. Byrd, the Senate Democratic whip, was "definitely on the list" of persons being considered.

Labor officials representing about 85% of the nation's union members made their decision after receiving a hand-initialed promise from Nixon that the administration would not overrule decisions of the autonomous wage and price review boards he has created for the post-freeze period.

But the labor leaders refused to promise that their membership would abide by all controls on wages, announced they woud continue to oppose Nixon's proposals for tax relief for business and industry, and said they would set up their own review panels across the country to keep an eye on price increases.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Give the City Council credit. It is trying, at least, to make the city a little more pleasant place in which to work. It is attempting this through enactment of an ordinance governing noises, including such things as garbage hauling, construction and rock bands.

If you think that isn't an ambitious undertaking, you just haven't bothered to listen to the world around you. We wonder, of course, whether noise is really the pollutant it is said to be or whether it is merely an irritant.

We have never really bought the findings of various experts who tell us all sorts of evil things as a consequence of noise but we cannnot say, either, that they are wrong. It simply seems to us that nothing of any serious consequence has really happened to us as a result of the noises we live with.

This is not to say that noise could not damage one in various ways both physically and psychologically. Obviously, 4 high and constant noise factor would have adverse effects upon human beings but we are talking about the more occasional noises that are a part of everyday life. The early-morning garbage-hauler, for instance, is a noise but it certainly doesn't hurt anyone. Now, it might wake someone up in the morning earlier than he would otherwise arise but that is not, it seems, a matter of great moment. It would be folly to attempt to prescribe to garbage-haulers the amount of noise they can make. It would be folly because you cannot haul garbage without making a noise. You can't lift a garage door to get to the homeowner's trash can without the door's making a noise.

You cannot operate one of the modern garbage trucks without the device's making a noise when it compacts the refuse fed into it. The only thing you could do would be to prescribe the times during which such noise could be made.

In doing this, one would want to coordinate things with the haulers. They must be hauling early in the morning for some reason and to arbitrarily set time limits for them could Jead to a lot of difficulties for everyone and, possibly, additional expense to all customers.

Construction noises are much in the same category. In strictly residential areas, some people may object to the power saws or hammering that take place when the day starts.

But we wonder if such people are not just a little spoiled. There is, in fact, a certain kind of welcome spirit to such activity. It means men at work, it means a growing neighborhood and it represents honest labor at a skill. Who really cares is the activity wakes them up a little early?

As for rock bands, the city has a big job ahead. To quiet down a rock band will be a little like trying to stop a lion from roaring. Have you ever tried to quiet down a rock band? You have if you have ever served as a chaperone at a teenage dance. Under such conditions, you could hardly help hut try to quiet things down but you know your efforts meet with little success.

The noise or loudness of the group, you see, is an integral part of the entire thing, just as are the psychedelic lights and the repetitious beat of the music (using the latter term

There are good and bad rock bands, of course, but a good one, it seems, is always loud. The electrical amplification of the music is a standard part of such productions and the whole thing is at its best when it practically drives you out

We have often wondered if there were not a sinister plot in it all. The loud noise makes conversation impossible and maybe this is why it's so attractive. Sometimes conversation comes a little hard between young people and the loud music makes it impossible to converse.

You might get a rock group to turn down the volume a little bit but it isn't five minutes before it is turned back up again. The City Council gets an "A" for effort but we are uncertain as to how much success it will or even should

Blackmail At The U.N.

The United States could cripple the United Nations, if not destroy it, by withdrawing the financial, political and moral support it contributes as a leading member of the world community. To some degree, so could any other strong nation or group of nations and that points out the inherent defect that prevents the UN from being a truly effective world organization.

Now, with the U.S. seeking support for its two-Chinas policy, Sen. James Buckley, New York's Conservative-Republican, has announced that if the Chinese Nationalist government on Formosa is expelled by the U.N. General Assembly, he will introduce legislation calling for a "dramatic reduction" of American contributions to the U N. Buckley's position is shared by a number of senators and members of the House.

George Bush, American ambassador to the U.N., says he understands that the expulsion of Nationalist China might cause a negative public reaction here, but that the U.S. government is not threatening a withdrawal of support if its China resolution is not adopted. The American mission is merely pointing out "the facts of life," Bush main-

Diplomats friendly to the U.S. reportedly are mixed in their reaction to the implied threat as a strategy to keep Chiang Kai-shek's China in the U.N. Some say it will have a positive impact on waverers from the U.S. position. Others see the tactic as blackmail and predict it will backfire.

Whether or not the threat, concealed or open, to withdraw U.S. financial support is effective in the present cause, the issue is bigger than the question of the two Chinas.

Buckley and his colleagues want to pick up the ball and go home if the game is not played according to their rules. It is important to the future of the United Nations that that atitude is not a prevailing one. That attitude has surfaced before and otherwise has always been so close to the surface that the U.N. in its first quarter century has been fairly impotent. This attempt at blackmail could cause irreparable damage.

Judging With Haste

Anyone who has harbored a grudge against a fellow worker, a neighbor or his brother-in-law could suppose that the rat is about to be nominated to the U.S. Supreme Court by President Nixon and then he would have license to expose the unfortunate wretch before the world.

This would follow from the assumption that several office-seekers seem to be working under as the rumor mill adds names to the list of prospective nominees for the seats left vacant by Justices Black and Harlan.

When the name of Sen. Robert C. Byrd, the Senate majority whip, popped up as a Supreme Court possibility, Sen. Henry Jackson said much too hastily he would support Byrd's confirmation. Also jumping the gun, with an eye toward political impact, were presidential aspirants George McGovern and Fred Harris, who said they would oppose Byrd.

McGovern's first reaction was that the West Virginian is "growing in stature," but then Monday he made his position unequivocally clear. "I cannot accept," said McGovern, "a man who is mediocre, who is a racist and who is unethical for membership on the U.S. Supreme Court.' Not a great deal is known about Sen.

Byrd in our part of the country, except that he is by reputation a conservative Democrat, a thorough politician and a senator whose civil rights record has been none too good. Perhaps his Senate service has not been "distinguished" but in all fairness, should Byrd be subject to character assassination before his nomination is even submitted which at present seems improbable?

Some of the fault no doubt lies with President Nixon, who has offered up two rather "undistinguished" nominations. But those were different circumstances. Both Judges Haynsworth and Carswell agreed to the nominations and to the risks to reputation involved. But now men's reputations are put in jeopardy before they have been offered or accepted an offer of a seat on the high court and that, in our opinion, is just not

Scout Membership

Lincoln, Neb. I hope that this is a unique and unusual experience that I write about, but I fear that it

In December, 1970, my son turned eight. For two years before that, because of the influence of neighborhood pals, he had wanted to become a cub scout. His foster sister, six months younger, had already become a "Brownie." In October, 1970, one of his cub scout den meeting. At that meeting he learned that he could begin in cubs a few months before his eighth birthday. He was anxious, so his mother began contacting scout headquarters and a variety of cub scout leaders in an effort to get him enrolled. She was informed by the leadership of the pack located nearest our home and serving the Randolph School District that the pack was full and no new boys were being ac-Within a few weeks, the mother of the friend who had invited our son informed us that new boys were received at the most recent meeting. When we questioned the cub leader, we were told that these boys were "from a different school" and one was "the son of a den mother" and another was "the son of a committeeman." Each one who was admitted into the pack had some special kind of relationship to it. In another conversation, we would have to take the son of the church's pastor or the sons of members of the church because those people let the pack meet in their building. Conversations of this nature took place on several occasions during the year, until in May, I talked with the cub master again and was informed that our son would be the next boy

member of the church hosting the pack, called to say that the church news letter had come and in it was notice that the cub pack was seeking new members. Again we called. Again we were told that our son was first on the list. Two weeks ago, four new boys were "bobcatted" into membership in the pack.

I called the cub master again. He began by saying: "These boys were from Bryan and your boy goes to Randolph." In anger I hung up the friends invited him to visit his phone, resolving to let it be known in scouting headquarters and to the community the problems that exist in attempting to enroll a boy in cub

Later the cub master called me, after my anger had cooled a little, in an effort to explain his problem. I was well aware before his call of the problems in recruiting leadership. Every group that depends on volunteer leadership is going through the same thing these But it seems to me that there is a more basic problem, and one that disturbs me greatly. The problem has its base in the lesson that attempting to become a cub scout is teaching the boys who don't get in. Even as late as the last pack meeting a week ago, the leader put out a recruitment call. Cubs earn an award even for recruiting new members. Each time a pep talk occurs for recruiting new boys, my son comes home saying: "So-and-so asked me to come to cubs with him." At were told that there were times when the leaders were each new invitation, we call. Then we have to say: "Sorry, obligated to take new members son, they can't take you. Yes, even when overcrowded. They they took some new boys but, you see, these boys had parents who were in some way able to influence their acceptance into the pack." Now, regardless of the justifiability of the reasons for accepting them into the pack, it does convey a very important message to the boys who don't get it. In fact, perhaps it conveys just exactly the opposite message that has received into the pack. Nothing been traditionally the message

Late in August, a friend, a of scouting. It does, however, convey a current typical American message. "It's not what but whom you know that

> Another lesson this teaches is that scouting leadership is being recruited in a new and different way. Rather than the recruitment of capable leaders who believe strongly in a good program, it is now leadership through coercion. We have been told by the pack leaders and other leaders in Lincoln's scouting program as we attended a meeting in an effort to organize another pack, that "... if one of the parents will become a leader, we'll make room for your boy . . ." That's coercion plain and simple. '

> I grew up in scouting. There weren't any cubs in my community in those days, but at 12, I became a scout and remained one until I was nearly 18. When cubbing did begin in my community. I became a den chief Later, I served as an assistant scoutmaster, and still later as a neighborhood commissioner. All of this, long before I had a child interested in scouting. I conclude by stating that it is wrong to recruit boys for the program when leaders are not available. It is wrong to recruit leaders through a program of coercion, stating that boys can be received only if parents will become the leaders. I question the real value of the program with leaders recruited in that way. And, finally, I question the justice in the support of the Boy Scout program through the United Fund if all boys who want to participate in the program are not received into membership.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Give the City Council credit. It is trying, at least, to make the city a little more pleasant place in which to work. It is attempting this through enactment of an ordinance governing noises, including such things as garbage hauling, construction

If you think that isn't an ambitious undertaking, you just haven't bothered to listen to the world around you. We wonder, of course, whether noise is really the pollutant it is said to be or whether it is merely an irritant.

We have never really bought the findings of various experts who tell us all sorts of evil things as a consequence of noise but we cannnot say, either, that they are wrong. It simply seems to us that nothing of any serious consequence has really happened to us as a result of the noises we live with.

This is not to say that noise could not damage one in various ways both physically and psychologically. Obviously, a high and constant noise factor would have adverse effects upon human beings but we are talking about the more occasional noises that are a part of everyday life.

The early-morning garbage-hauler, for instance, is a noise but it certainly doesn't hurt anyone. Now, it might wake someone up in the morning earlier than he would otherwise arise but that is not, it seems, a matter of great moment.

It would be folly to attempt to prescribe to garbage-haulers the amount of noise they can make. It would be folly because you cannot haul garbage without making a noise. You can't lift a garage door to get to the homeowner's trash can without the door's making a noise.

You cannot operate one of the modern garbage trucks without the device's making a noise when it compacts the refuse fed into it. The only thing you could do would be to prescribe the times during which such noise could be made.

In doing this, one would want to coordinate things with the haulers. They must be hauling early in the morning for some reason and to arbitrarily set time limits for them could Jead to a lot of difficulties for everyone and, possibly, additional expense to all customers.

Construction noises are much in the same category. In strictly residential areas, some people may object to the power saws or hammering that take place when the day starts.

But we wonder if such people are not just a little spoiled. There is, in fact, a certain kind of welcome spirit to such activity. It means men at work, it means a growing neighborhood and it represents honest labor at a skill. Who really cares is the activity wakes them up a little early?

As for rock bands, the city has a big job ahead. To quiet down a rock band will be a little like trying to stop a lion from roaring. Have you ever tried to quiet down a rock band? You have if you have ever served as a chaperone at a teenage dance. Under such conditions, you could hardly help but try to quiet things down but you know your efforts meet with little success.

The noise or loudness of the group, you see, is an integral part of the entire thing, just as are the psychedelic lights and the repetitious beat of the music (using the latter term

There are good and bad rock bands, of course, but a good one, it seems, is always loud. The electrical amplification of the music is a standard part of such productions and the whole thing is at its best when it practically drives you out

We have often wondered if there were not a sinister plot in it all. The loud noise makes conversation impossible and maybe this is why it's so attractive. Sometimes conversation comes a little hard between young people and the loud music makes it impossible to converse.

You might get a rock group to turn down the volume a little bit but it isn't five minutes before it is turned back up again. The City Council gets an "A" for effort but we are uncertain as to how much success it will or even should

One Number Each Would Simplify Life

I have livened up dull gatherings with the suggestion that we all be assigned a "master number" at birth, which could then be recorded on the only credit card we'd ever need for the rest of our lives.

Now I find somebody has swiped my idea. Several somebodies, in fact. The government of West Germany is thinking of issuing ever citizen a "control" number at birth . . . Israel and Scandinavia already do it . . . and Japan is thinking about it.

But they limit their numbers to government records. My plan would cover everything.

New Play In The Big Game Plan Against The Kids

Blackmail At The U.N.

The United States could cripple the United Nations, if not destroy it, by withdrawing the financial, political and moral support it contributes as a leading member of the world community. To some degree, so could any other strong nation or group of nations and that points out the inherent defect that prevents the UN from being a truly effective world organization.

Now, with the U.S. seeking support for its two-Chinas policy, Sen. James Buckley, New York's Conservative-Republican, has announced that if the Chinese Nationalist government on Formosa is expelled by the U.N. General Assembly, he will introduce legislation calling for a "dramatic reduction" American contributions to the U.N. Buckley's position is shared by a number of senators and members of the House.

George Bush, American ambassador to the U.N., says he understands that the expulsion of Nationalist China might cause a negative public reaction here, but that the U.S. government is not threatening a withdrawal adopted. The American mission is merely pointing out "the facts of life," Bush main-

Diplomats friendly to the U.S. reportedly are mixed in their reaction to the implied threat as a strategy to keep Chiang Kai-shek's China in the U.N. Some say it will have a positive impact on waverers from the U.S. position. Others see the tactic as blackmail and predict it will backfire.

Whether or not the threat, concealed or open, to withdraw U.S. financial support is effective in the present caase, the issue is bigger than the question of the two Chinas.

Buckley and his colleagues want to pick up the ball and go home if the game is not played according to their rules. It is important to the future of the United Nations that that atitude is not a prevailing one. That attitude has surfaced before and otherwise has always been so close to the surface that the U.N. in its first quarter century has been fairly impotent. This attempt at of support if its China resolution is not blackmail could cause irreparable damage.

Judging With Haste

Anyone who has harbored a grudge against a fellow worker, a neighbor or his brother-in-law could suppose that the rat is about to be nominated to the U.S. Supreme Court by President Nixon and then he would have license to expose the unfortunate wretch before the world.

This would follow from the assumption that several office-seekers seem to be working under as the rumor mill adds names to the list of prospective nominees for the seats left vacant by Justices Black and Harlan.

When the name of Sen. Robert C. Byrd, the Senate majority whip, popped up as a Supreme Court possibility, Sen. Henry Jackson said much too hastily he would support Byrd's confirmation. Also jumping the gun, with an eye toward political impact, were presidential aspirants George McGovern and Fred Harris, who said they would oppose Byrd.

McGovern's first reaction was that the West Virginian is "growing in stature," but then Monday he made his position unequivocally clear. "I cannot accept," said

McGovern, "a man who is mediocre, who is a racist and who is unethical for membership on the U.S. Supreme Court."

Not a great deal is known about Sen. Byrd in our part of the country, except that he is by reputation a conservative Democrat, a thorough politician and a senator whose civil rights record has been none too good. Perhaps his Senate service has not been 'distinguished" but in all fairness, should Byrd be subject to character assassination before his nomination is even submitted which at present seems improbable?

Some of the fault no doubt lies with President Nixon, who has offered up two rather "undistinguished" nominations. But those were different circumstances. Both Judges Haynsworth and Carswell agreed to the nominations and to the risks to reputation involved. But now men's reputations are put in jeopardy before they have been offered or accepted an offer of a seat on the high court and that, in our opinion, is just not

Scout Membership

Lincoln, Neb. I hope that this is a unique and unusual experience that I write about, but I fear that it

In December, 1970, my son turned eight. For two years before that, because of the influence of neighborhood pals, he had wanted to become a cub scout. His foster sister, six months younger, had already become a "Brownie."

In October, 1970, one of his friends invited him to visit his cub scout den meeting. At that meeting he learned that he could begin in cubs a few months before his eighth birthday. He was anxious, so his mother began contacting scout headquarters and a variety of cub scout leaders in an effort to get him enrolled. She was informed by the leadership of the pack located nearest our home and serving the Randolph School District that the pack was full and no new boys were being ac-

Within a few weeks, the mother of the friend who had invited our son informed us that new boys were received at the most recent meeting. When we questioned the cub leader, we were told that these boys were "from a different school" and one was "the son of a den mother" and another was "the son of a committeeman." Each one who was admitted into the pack had some special kind of relationship to it.

In another conversation, we were told that there were times when the leaders were obligated to take new members even when overcrowded. They would have to take the son of the church's pastor or the sons of members of the church because those people let the pack meet in their building.

Conversations of this nature took place on several occasions during the year, until in May, I talked with the cub master again and was informed that our son would be the next boy received into the pack. Nothing happened over the summer.

Late in August, a friend, a member of the church hosting the pack, called to say that the church news letter had come and in it was notice that the cub pack was seeking new members. Again we called. Again we were told that our son was first on the list. Two weeks ago, four new boys were "bobcatted" into membership in the pack. I called the cub master again. He began by saying: "These boys were from Bryan and your boy goes to Randolph." In anger I hung up the phone, resolving to let it be known in scouting headquarters and to the community the problems that exist in attempting to enroll a boy in cub scouting.

Later the cub master called me, after my anger had cooled a little, in an effort to explain his problem. I was well aware before his call of the problems in recruiting leadership. Every group that depends on volunteer leadership is going through the same thing these But it seems to me that there is a more basic problem, and one that disturbs me greatly. The problem has its base in the lesson that attempting to become a cub scout is teaching the boys who don't get in. Even as late as the last pack meeting a week ago, the leader put out a recruitment call. Cubs earn an award even for recruiting new members. Each time a pep talk occurs for recruiting new boys, my son comes home saving: "So-and-so asked me to come to cubs with him." At each new invitation, we call. Then we have to say: "Sorry, son, they can't take you. Yes, they took some new boys but, you see, these boys had parents who were in some way able to influence their acceptance into the pack." Now, regardless of the justifiability of the reasons for accepting them into the pack, it does convey a very important message to the boys who don't get it. In fact, perhaps it conveys just exactly the opposite message that has been traditionally the message of scouting. It does, however, convey a current typical American message. "It's not what but whom you know that Another lesson this teaches is that scouting leadership is being recruited in a new and different way. Rather than the recruitment of capable leaders who believe strongly in a good program, it is now leadership through coercion. We have been told by the pack leaders and other leaders in Lincoln's scouting program as we attended a meeting in an effort to organize another pack, that ... if one of the parents will become a leader, we'll make room for your boy. . ." That's coercion plain and simple.

I grew up in scouting. There weren't any cubs in my community in those days, but at 12, I became a scout and remained one until I was nearly 18. When cubbing did begin in my community. I became a den chief. Later, I served as an assistant scoutmaster, and still later as a neighborhood commissioner. All of this, long before I had a child interested in scouting. Coercion wasn't necessary then, but a commitment to a program.

Right now, it is impossible for either my wife or me to be active scout leaders on a regular basis, although over the past years I have assisted in the scouting program in Lincoln, serving on an ex-amining board for the God and Country Award.

I conclude by stating that it is wrong to recruit boys for the program when leaders are not available. It is wrong to recruit leaders through a program of coercion, stating that boys can be received only if parents will become the leaders. I question the real value of the program with leaders recruited in that way. And, finally, I question the justice in the support of the Boy Scout program through the United Fund if all boys who want to participate in the program are not received into membership.

"Tex" Watson, who coolly testified that on Charles being returned here he was as saying: "Make sure Manson's orders he shot or ruled insane, then later prostabbed six of the Tate-LaBianca slaying victims, was convicted Tuesday of seven The defense said he became counts of first-degree murder mentally deranged from and one of conspiracy to commit murder.

He was the last of five defendants to be convicted in the slayings of actress Sharon Tate and six others in August 1969. Manson, 36, and three female co-defendants already have been convicted and sentenced to death.

Watson, a lanky 25-year-old former Texas honor student. was described at his trial as the chief lieutenant in Manson's hippie-style clan and leader of groups that on two nights in August 1969 savagely killed the beautiful actress and the

The state contended Manson, a glib ex-convict, mesmerized followers into thinking he was divine. He ordered the bloody slayings, the state says, in hopes they would be blamed on blacks and a race war would ensue, after which he would take power.

His mother testified he had been her "pride and joy" until then, but when she saw him again he "sounded like he was floating on a cloud" and spoke of "a man called Jesus who was named Manson."

> Watson testified that the only victim he didn't attack was the beautiful actress herself. Miss Atkins confessed to fatally stabbing Miss Tate, 26, a blonde pregnant wife of film director Roman Polanski. She was slain along with four visitors to her Benedict Canyon mansion the night of Aug. 9, 1969. The next night, a few miles away, a market owner and his wife, Leno and Rosemary LaBianca, were found slain in similar fashion. Murder scenes were gruesome, marked by bloody scrawlings and mutilated bodies.

> Watson said he stabbed the LaBiancas, and, at the Tate house, stabbed or shot victims Steven Parent, 18; Jay Sebring, 26, a Hollywood hair stylist and one time fiance of Miss Tate: Voityk Frykowski, 37, a Polish playboy friend of Polanski; and Abigail Folger, 26, a coffee heiress.

Old Guard Demos Win Over Reformers

guard Democrats won the opening round Tuesday in a hattle with party reformers over control of a normally routine post that threatened to reopen some of their 1968 con-committee for next year's convention at Miami Beach.

Mrs. Harris is opposed by a reform leader, Sen. Harold E. Hughes of Iowa. His name will be placed in nomination when the full 110-member national committee votes Wednesday.

would force the county to refund increases in rural property taxes for 1970.

Manpower Committee Appointed

The State Manpower Coordinator Tuesday announced the creation of an advisory committee to Gov. J. James Exon for manpower planning in Nebraska.

The new committee will be known as the State Manpower Planning Council and replaces the Cooperative Area Manpower Planning System.

According to Jerry Kromberg, "The primary goal of the group will be to identify manpower needs throughout Nebraska and to coordinate available and potential programs to serve their needs.'

The new manpower planning courts ruled invalid. group will include five Area Manpower Planning Boards made up of representatives from rural and urban Nebraska.

decree entered Tuesday which District Court Judge Hugh Stuart filed his decree ordering refunds he made on 1970 rural property taxes in the amount those taxes were increased County Treasurer George when the assessment on rural property was raised by 50% by the state Board of Equalization

> The suit against the county was brought by North Platte rancher Wesley F. Hansen.

Berg said none of the 1970 refunds can be made until after the case is heard by the state's high court. That would mean that refunds on the 1970 taxes, if the Supreme Court upholds Judge Stuart, would not be made until 1972.

The increased assessments remained in effect for 1970 because the Supreme Court decision invalidating the 1969 assessment increases was not handed down until after the 1970 assessments had been certified by the county assessor to the county clerk. The 1970 assessments included the 50% increase from 1969, which the WANEK'S completely eliminates the old fashioned, separate storage and warehouse . . . saving you handling costs. Wanek's also cut operating costs by maintaining just one store, 3 walk-in warehouses . . . and their new Showcase of Rooms . . . all under one roof . . . and all in the same, low country overhead location!!

WANEK'S sells more . . . much more than the conventional retail store. Our fast turnover lets us sell for less so you save on every item, it also means greater selection, as our vast 100,000 sq. ft. of showroom and warehouse offers you the advantage of choosing from over 500 room settings, more than 1,000 chairs, rockers and recliners, 400 rolls of carpeting and a complete appliance and TV center!!

WANEK'S world wide buying power and unique mass merchandising system enables Wanek's to buy nationally known, name brand home furnishings and receive the lowest possible prices on quality merchandise. Wanek's buy in volume, consequently Wanek's sell for less!!

WANEK'S new Showcase Addition of completely decorated rooms brings you an entirely new way to solve your home furnishing problems. 45 individual rooms, each with it's own carpeting, wallpaper and lighting, accessorized to the last detail ... to aid your imagination in mentally matching just the right ensemble to just the right spot in your home . . . enabling you to make the right choice in a mercifully short time, without costly decorating services . . . and still receive Wanek's low country overhead prices!!

BEYOND YOUR IMAGINATION . . YOU MUST SEE IT TO BELIEVE IT!!

Money doesn't last any better for me than it did for grandma. I am caught in computers.

("This is allowance day. You owe me a quarter," said our daughter. I should try to improve her mind. She has a mind like a cash register.)

Why money doesn't last well is because I am not a computer. I said to the house wren: "You borrowed 10 dollars the other day. How about paying it back?"

She said: "What on earth are you talking about?"

I said: "I am talking about 10 skins you cried out of me when you needed groceries and forgot your checkbook."

She said: "I distinctly remember cashing a check at the market. So I couldn't possibly have borrowed any from you."

(I should put that bird up against the computer!)

Here's a Michigan psychologist warning us: "The frustration of a man arguing with a machine sets up new conflicts of modern living."

Grandma paid cash for everything. There was little credit in those simple days. When people bought something, they saved up for it.

Now we carry stacks of credit cards.

I said to the house wren: "I am going to issue my own credit cards. When you borrow money from me, I'm going to print your card on a slip and bill you."

She said: "That reminds me. You owe me seven dollars for your cleaning I picked up the other day."

My grandfather borrowed business money from banks. Never personal money.

Theatre Workshop Slated At NWU

Some 200 high school theatre enthusiasts will be on the Nebraska Wesleyan University Campus Saturday for a theatre workshop sponsored by Plainsman Players.

The afternoon long program will include a tour of the laboratory area, theatre shop, costume library and properties library preceding a performance of Arthur Miller's "Death of a Salesman," currently in production at Enid Miller Theatre.

The high school students will be able to witness all the preparations which go into a performance before the curtain goes up, including a check of lighting cues, placement of props, cast makeup, sound cue check and stage and set

After the performance, the high school students will have an opportunity to question cast members about their performances and tour back stage areas.

Many times a child is freed by a divorce. He is released from the conflict that existed between his parents - either verbal or silent - and he is no longer in a position where he feels he must assume the responsibility for harmony in the home.

Since the mother is usually given custody of the children, the father's concern for mainting a good relationship with his offspring is a very real one. Visitation rights are generally specified in the divorce decree. However, visitation becomes detrimental when it is assumed as a duty, or when it is used as a vengeful right against the other spouse. Rather, visits should reflect a mutual desire of the parent and the child to be together.

The father who lives in a different town than his children is in a less enviable position to maintain a relationship, since visits are restricted usually to holidays and summer. The essential element is that the child knows he belongs and is cared for in spite of time and distance, and although time and distance may blur the relationship, if it is strong and warm it will survive. Humans, including children, maintain the capacity for love.

While a step-parent should not take the functions away from the natural parent, it need be no more true that a stepfather or step-mother replace the natural mother or father than a new friend replaces an old one. The child can acquire something extra in the way of love and friendship through a step parent.

MONEY MATTERS

By LINDA OLIG

Last week we began discussing sales and the different types of stores and then we discovered that there is considerably more to this than meets the eye.

For example, we decided it would be good sense - budgetwise — to comparison-shop. But there are so many kinds of stores - so we have come to the conclusion that it might be better to do the comparison shopping within each type of store. Each has its advantages and disadvantages -

Let's look at them:

DISCOUNT STORES where you can save a great deal, particularly on big-ticket items. Again, you must decide what brand you want before entering the store - If you know what you want, you can avoid being influenced to buy another. However, most of these stores discourage returns or exchanges and make the process time-consuming and inconvenient. To avoid this, it is advisable to know what you want before embarking on that shopping spree.

DEPARTMENT STORES often have higher markups, but the merchandise is usually of better quality. They also take telephone orders, deliver merchandise, and pick up items you wish to return - and this is handy for the busy housewife.

CLEARANCE CENTERS are most commonly found outside the city limits - where rent and overhead are lower. They are outlets for leftover stock and therefore offer outstandingsavings, particularly in furniture, bedding, and carpeting. However, they are mostly self-service and do not deliver. If they do, an extra charge is tacked on. BARGAIN BASEMENTS -are a permanent fixture in most big department stores. They may serve as the store's general clearing house-since the merchandise found at the bargain counters may come from the same manufacturers who spply the other departments with higher-priced products.

THRIFT SHOPS AND RESALE STORES-sell used merchandise. Often you may get an excellent item for an unbelievably low price. They sell clothing, furniture, glassware-nearly everything under the sun.

SECONDHAND STORES deal largely in furniture and offer great bargains-particularly for those who enjoy refinishing unusual, priceless, or even common pieces.

A UCTIONS—are fantastic places to obtain nearly any item. However, it is required that you know the approximate value of any item before bidding, or you may pay more for it at the auction than you would elsewhere.

USED MERCHANDISE FROM PRIVATE PARTIES may result in the best buys of all, Furniture bought from a family planning a distant move or from a woman who has lost or gained a great deal of weight, can sometimes be bought for nearly nothing.

NEXT WEEK-sales, sales, and more sales!

The details of a house that show people have lived there are the most difficult parts of a restoration. Museums and owners of century homes are often disappointed because a room, carefully furnished with appropriate pieces, seems dull and formal.

Only the signs of human life really give a personality to a room. It is this type of detail that can be discovered through pictures of the period

The glass was originally called Mexican ware. At a later date, it was referred to as Hooligan glass The story goes that those winning a carnival prize often asked for the "goofy looking glass" and so the name Goofus evolved.

Lawrence, Kan. (A) - Kansas football Coach Don Fambrough said Tuesday his starting quarterback Saturday against Nebraska will not be named until just before game time.

Dan Heck, a senior, has been challenged for the starting job by sophomore David Jaynes, who threw three touchdown passes last Saturday in the Jayhawks' 39-13 conquest of Kansas State.

The coach shrugged off Nebraska Coach Bob Devaney's comment that against this season.

Steve Blass

Pittsburgh's first run, Jose Pagan drove in the second and Robertson cracked his homer. But the day belonged to Blass.

And he left no doubt as to how he felt about his performance. Asked if it was the best he had pitched all year, Blass shot back: 'How about in my life?"

Robertson, who shared the hero's spotlight with Blass, said he didn't know he had swung through a bunt sign on his seventh inning homer until he crossed the plate and was greeted by Willie Stargell.

"Atta way to bunt the ball," Stargell told him.

The homer made it 5-1, giving Blass some additional working room as he bounced back with an overpowering performance after being shelled from the mound in two National League playoff starts.

And he did it against a

Baltimore team that had mauled Pittsburgh pitching for 24 hits and 16 runs in the two previous games.

The 29-year-old right-hander kept the Orioles completely off balance with an assortment of blazing fast balls and round house curve's and held them scoreless until Frank Robinson homered in the seventh.

That trimmed Pittsburgh's lead to 2-1, but it was the only time the Orioles were able to break through against Blass, a Kansas was by far the toughest 6-foot, 170-pounder regarded as opponent his team has come up one of the easiest-going members of the Pirates.

New York - The Big Eight's Big Three of Nebraska, Oklahoma and Colorado, who have given the Big Eight a domination of the college football polls, also are giving the league a domination in the NCAA's total offense and scoring offense departments.

Oklahoma, ranked second nationally behind Nebraska in the polls, is the nation's leader in total offense with an average of 479.5 yards per game, rushing offense with 427.8 yards per game and scoring with 41.5 points per outing.

Nebraska is fifth in total offense with 458.2 yards per contest, 10th in passing with 205 yards per game and seventh in scoring with an average of 35.8 points.

Colorado ranks eighth in total offense at 423.6 yards, 13th in rushing offense at 285.4 yards and 11th in scoring with 32.4 points per game.

Blass, who had a no-hitter working until Brooks Robinson singled with one out in the fifth. thus made something of a prophet of Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh. Murtaugh had warned against counting the Pirates out until they returned to their home base at Three Rivers Stadium.

The triumph also underscored the critical nature of Wednesday's night's fourth game — the first World Series night game in history. Baltimore's fourth 20-game winner, Pat Dobson, will go in that one against Luke Walker, 10-8 during the regular season.

But it is doubtful that more attention could be focused on one man than was focused on Blass in this one. For even as he checked the Orioles they weren't out of it until Robertson's blast in the seventh inning.

After a shaky start, Cuellar seemed to have as much control of the situation as Blass.

But Cuellar threw wildly to first on Roberto Clemente's leadoff grounder. Then Willie Stargell walked on four pitches and Robertson tagged a drive over the 385-foot mark in right center field.

That made it 5-1, and all Blass had to do was coast the rest of the way. But just as he had done after Robinson's homer, his sixth hit and second homer of the Series, he bore Baltimore bounce-back by striking out Ellie Hendricks and Brooks Robinson and getting Dave Johnson on a soft grounder.

Jaynes' Appearance Alters NU Defense

. . . FORWARD PASS MAY BE THREAT TO HUSKERS

BY HAL BROWN Star Sports Editor

The sudden emergence of sophomore David Jaynes as the premier quarterback at Kansas means Nebraska's defense must prepare for a slightly altered Jayhawk attack when

KU invades Memorial Stadium Saturday. "In the films we've seen of games he played against Minnesota and Kansas State. Jaynes did a tremendous job for a sophomore quarterback," Husker head coach Bob Devaney said Tuesday. "With Jaynes at quarterback they have a different type attack than with Dan Heck." he added. "With Heck, they are primarily a running team with Heck doing a lot of it on the option.

"They'll still run with Jaynes at quarterback, but they'll do most of it with their backs and Jaynes gives them a great passing threat.' And Devaney points out that the Jayhawk backs, Steve Conley, Vince O'Neill and Delvin Williams, "sure can move."

He also fears that as good as Jaynes was last week in leading KU's 39-13 victory over Kansas State, "he should be even better this week with that game behind him.' In the Minnesota game which the Jayhawks lost with

Jaynes not getting into the game until late, Devaney pointed out, "When he did get in there, he took the team right down the field to a score." And when he entered the game against Kansas State last week, Devaney observed, "he made a runaway of the

we have played. "If Missouri's defense hadn't been on the field so much, we certainly wouldn't have scored 36 points against them."

One of the problems that Devaney contemplates from the Jayhawk offense is their single wing type attack.

"They run out of the I-formation which we've faced, but they also run out of what almost amounts to the old single wing offense," he offers. "They present us with some problems we haven't yet faced this season.

Reminded that in addition to losing to Minnesota, KU also lost to Florida State, Devaney countered, "Florida State might be a darn good football team. They're still unbeaten.'

When Petraglia returns to Nebraska's Capital City for the Lincoln Open on Oct. 22-25, the 1971 leading money winner on the PBA tour will be a tournament favorite. This will be the left-hander's third trip to Lincoln. He finished 25th in 1969.

Those amateurs lucky enough to bowl with Petraglia in the pro-am portion of the tournament on Oct. 22 will swear that if the bowler didn't have a bowling ball in his hands, he would look as if he were about to start a shuffleboard game. But, there is little mistaking the look of concentration on the face of this skinny, bespectacled southpaw.

QB Starter Open At KU

Lawrence, Kan. (P) — Kansas Stargell told him. football Coach Don Fambrough said Tuesday his starting quarterback Saturday against Nebraska will not be named until just before game time.

Dan Heck, a senior, has been challenged for the starting job by sophomore David Jaynes, who threw three touchdown passes last Saturday in the Javhawks' 39-13 conquest of Kansas State.

Fambrough listed center Mike McCoy and offensive back Bob Bruegging as doubtful for the Nebraska game. McCoy has a pinched nerve in his neck, Bruegging a sprained ankle.

The coach shrugged off Nebraska Coach Bob against this season.

Pittsburgh's first run, Jose Pagan drove in the second and Robertson cracked his homer. But the day belonged to Blass.

And he left no doubt as to how he felt about his performance. Asked if it was the best he had pitched all year, Blass shot back: "How about in my life?"

Robertson, who shared the hero's spotlight with Blass, said he didn't know he had swung through a bunt sign on his seventh inning homer until he crossed the plate and was greeted by Willie Stargell.

"Atta way to bunt the ball,"

The homer made it 5-1, giving Blass some additional working room as he bounced back with an overpowering performance after being shelled from the mound in two National League playoff starts.

And he did it against a Baltimore team that had mauled Pittsburgh pitching for 24 hits and 16 runs in the two previous games.

The 29-year-old right-hander kept the Orioles completely off balance with an assortment of blazing fast balls and round house curves and held them scoreless until Frank Robinson homered in the seventh.

That trimmed Pittsburgh's lead to 2-1, but it was the only time the Orioles were able to Devaney's comment that break through against Blass, a Kansas was by far the toughest 6-foot, 170-pounder regarded as opponent his team has come up one of the easiest-going members of the Pirates.

Jaynes' Appearance Alters NU Defense ... FORWARD PASS MAY BE THREAT TO HUSKERS

The sudden emergence of sophomore David Jaynes as the premier quarterback at Kansas means Nebraska's defense must prepare for a slightly altered Jayhawk attack when KU invades Memorial Stadium Saturday.

"They'll still run with Jaynes at quarterback, but they'll do most of it with their backs and Jaynes gives them a great passing threat. And Devaney points out that the Jayhawk backs, Steve

Conley, Vince O'Neill and Delvin Williams, "sure can move." He also fears that as good as Jaynes was last week we certainly wouldn't have scored 36 points against them." One of the problems that Devaney contemplates from the Jayhawk offense is their single wing type attack.

"They run out of the I-formation which we've faced, but they also run out of what almost amounts to the old single wing offense," he offers. "They present us with some problems we haven't yet faced this season."

Reminded that in addition to losing to Minnesota, KU also lost to Florida State, Devaney countered, "Florida State might be a darn good football team. They're still unbeaten.'

- Judge Brown noted the player had been "well-manmered and obedient dutiful son and has won various awards. The report disclosed you were not overly impressed with your newspaper clippings, which is a nice thing.

"You have worked hard but you have just been a fool - to put it bluntly - in this instance. There was no reason Jor you to do this," the judge told Cohlmia.

Cohlmia answered: "As you 'said, I was a fool. I don't know why I did it and probably never [will. I didn't need the money . . . I do wish to finish my education and become as fine a citizen as there is."

Cohlmia and Thomas J. Gaughan Jr., 22, a starting of fensive lineman on the KU Iteam, were charged Aug. 17 with possession of stolen mail, two checks of $518 each addressed to a Jewell County deacher who was living at the same Lawrence apartment complex as Gaughan while attending summer school.

Gaughan pleaded guilty and was placed on three years probation last month.

The strong running halfback 20, 25 and 11 yards. carried the ball 13 times for 118 yards -a nine-yard per carry average - and tallied one TD on the ground to go with his

Tech College Plan May Aid Disabled Vets The board of the Lincoln

Community Technical College Tuesday heard that college officials are investigating the possibility of establishing a "telecommunications technician" program which would be designed especially for disabled Vietnam war veterans.

If funds for the program are acquired, a pilot effort would be launched in cooperation with Fitzsimmons Hospitai m Denver to train medically discharged or convalescent veterans.

The training would be initiated at the hospital and continuc at the college in Lin-

In a report on the proposal, college officials said there are currently 60 positions available in the state for persons trained in telecom munications specialities, due to the expansion of a statewide network of public service communications facilities to serve law enforcement agencies, the National Guard, other governmental agencies and medical facilities.

Physical requirements to handle such positions are minimal, officials told the board, which serves both the college and the Lincoln Public Schools.

The board also reviewed, at its monthly meeting, enrollments in the tech college for the fall quarter.

Enrollments include 541 in the full-time occupational training department and 2,980 in the part-time evening adult education courses.

Stock Prices Rise In Moderate Trade

New York (A) - Stock market prices rose in Tuesday's moderate trading.

The closing Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose 1.61 to 893.55. Big Board volume climbed to 14.35 million shares from 7.81 million shares Monday.

In the news background, labor leaders agreed to participate in the administration's wage board which was established as the second phase of President Nixon's new antiinflationary program. To obtain labor's support, the President promised there would be no veto of the board's decision.

"The behavior of the market today is just in line with less emotional expectations from the Phase 2 program," said Lucien Hooper, an analyst at W. E. Hutton & Co.

"The reason the market didn't really react in a positive manner to labor's announcement is that it realizes that it won't be possible to keep wages as much in line as it would be if there were no agreement.' Hooper noted.

the market was developing recognition that the results of the new program would be delayed rather than immediate and that some of the wageprice legislation must inevitably be antiprofits.

Grant Provides The Funds For Job Programs

Omaha (A) - A $534,700 federal grant sought by the city for itself and other local governmental units for employment programs has been approved, Alvin Goodwin Jr., an assistant to Mayor Eugene Leahy, said Tuesday.

The grant was obtained through the Emergency Employment Act from the U.S. Department of Labor and will finance jobs in environmental quality, education and public safety. It will provide work for the unemployed and underemployed.

The grant will provide $311,834 for the city to hire 37 employes. It also provides: Douglas County, 16 employes, $83,958; Omaha School District, 17 employes, $75,765; School District 66, seven employes, $35,572 and Omaha Housing Authority, three employes, $19,182.

with usable hints. Most small taxpayers, for example, automatically use the standard record keeping. But the author finds that the average person can save in taxes if he figures each year whether he is better off with the standard deduction or itemizing deductible expenses such as charitable gifts, taxes, medical expenses, interest, etc. The author advises: "In the year you plan to take the standard deduction, keep your deductible expenses to a minimum. Push as many deductions as possible into the year in which you itemize." Loans Are Better

Cheeks points out that the family head is better off, taxwise, if he borrows from a bank or finance company, and gets an objective accounting of his interest cost. Under the instalment plan, the deductible portion is diluted to one-third or one-half by non-deductible items described as service charge, carrying charge, and credit charge. Likewise, getting down to the nitty gritty, the author points out that, if you expect a salary increase next year, adjust to it as follows:

"Postpone charitable contributions until next year.

Moratorium On Business Is Scheduled

Nebraskans for Peace will conduct a one-hour moratorium on business-as-usual with a noontime demonstration at the Statehouse Wednesday.

The demonstration is part of a nationwide moratorium observance "to give attention to the changing nature of the Indochinese conflict," NFP spokesman Nick Meinhardt

"Although the American body count is down, there are still 300 to 400 Indochinese people being killed there daily, the majority of which are casualties of the B-52's from which victims cannot even be seen."

Nebraskans for Peace is asking people to lie down on the Capitol's north steps Wednesday to represent both the 408 Nebraskans killed in the war and the 300 to 400 Indochinese being killed there daily.

In addition to the demonstration, there will be songs and a short statement during the observance which will continue from noon until 1

Black Leader Attacks Economic Exploitation

"This country is run by pay cash for a car, but you Price, a national coordinator of the national Association of Black Students.

Price, speaking to about 40 people in the University of Nebraska Student Union Tuesday night, said, "Students can strike and nothing happens, but when the black workers in Detroit strike, things happen."

Price said blacks could "ill afford to be a part of the economic system in the U.S."

"To say that we'll make a price on milk and then dump out milk to support that price while someone is starving, is something we can't be a part of.'' he said.

"Black people can produce and produce, but they never gain," Price said. "You can

Sideburns Case Dropped

Oakland, Neb. (49) - The attempt by an Oakland mother to overrule regulations at Oakland-Craig High school governing the length of her son's sideburns has ended and the sideburns have been shaved

Mrs. Charles Troupe has dropped her suit against Oakland's school board, which tried to enforce a ruling governing the length of a students' hair and dress through a school dress code.

He son, Roger, 16, grew sideburns below the bottom of his ears in violation of the code and was in danger of losing rights to participate in extracurricular activities.

"It seemed the only thing to do at the time." Mrs. Troupe said of her decision to file suit against the board. "The dress code was so ridiculous. I just wanted to point out how ridiculous it was.

However, the case was dropped through "pressure of the community," Mrs. Troupe said.

Costly 'Pacification' Program Is Designed For Cambodia

Che New york Cimes

Washington — The United States Joint Chiefs of Staff are said to have designed a costly program of "pacification" and other unconventional warfare for Cambodia to protect South Vietnam's western flank as Americans keep withdrawing from Indochina. They have also proposed a series of budget gimmicks to augment the funds that Congress will be asked to provide for expanding the Cambodian army over the next five years.

The Chiefs submitted their program last month to Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, according to congressional sources. Laird. who has been bargaining with the chiefs since June about the cost of the effort, is described as of about 180,000. The Cambostill reluctant about the latest version, which would double spending for Cambodia to about $500 million a year by 1977.

How to protect Cambodia mostly east of the Mekong from the North Vietnamese and River. deny them the use of Cambodian territory for attacks against South Vietnam's population centers has become a major problem for Pentagon planners. As the American forces in South Vietnam are reduced to - at the most-50,000, and come to rely on air power for overations in the rest of Indochina, the planners are looking to indigenous forces to carry the burden in

With a first-year grant of $185 million in military aid and $70 million in economic aid, the Cambodian army has already been expanded from 30,000 men in April, 1970-when American forces invaded the North Vietnamese "sanctuaries" in Cambodia-to a current force dians are said to have fought well, but most of them are no match yet for the 60,000 North Vielnamese in their country, ground combat.

$350 Million When the Joint Chiefs of Staff first considered the problem last June, they proposed a 1971-72 military aid program of $350 million, congressional informants report.

But as finally submitted to Congress, the Cambodian aid program called for $200 million in military aid, $110 millios in economic assistance and $15 million worth of agricultural commodities for a total of $325 million, a net increase of $61 million over last year.

Nonetheless, in explaining their elaborate military plans to Laird in a memorandum dated Aug. 30, the Joint Chiefs indicated that they could get around the limit on military spending and proceed with the build-up.

According to the informants, the Chiefs offered four different ways of generating an extra $52 million so as to add 40,000 troops to the Cambodian army and also raise the they were looking ahead to "paramilitary" force of armed civilians to 143,000.

Transfer Money

The first way would be simply to transfer $52 million from the economic aid program to military spending, which can be done later in the fiscal year simply by notifying Congress. The second way would be to let the economic aid fund purchase all "common use" items such as trucks and jeeps, which have military as well as civilian value, thus freeing other military funds. A third way would be to increase procurement for the American Army by $52 million and give the materiel to the Cambodians, for "repayment" later. The fourth way would be to make some exceptions in Defense Department supply regulations, declaring additional equipment to be "excess" and delivering it to the Cambodians.

The Pentagon planners said

further increases in the Cambodian army, so that it will number 256,000 men by mid-1973 and more than 300,000 men

The Joint Chiefs have divided their program of activity into four headings, labeled " pacification, "unconventional warfare," "psychological operations" and "civil affairs." The country would be divided into eight pacification areas and this program would be supervised by a new United States deputy ambassador - as in South Vietnam -in a new embassy structure. The Pentagon would also create a three-nation military committee with the Cambodians and South Vietnamese, representing itself through Gen. Frederick G. Weyand, the deputy commander of American forces in South Viet-

Son Is Placed On Probation

Providence, R.I. (A) Richard W. Carson, 19, son of television performer Johnny Carson, was placed on unsupervised probation for two years Tuesday after pleading no contest to a charge of illegal possession of marijuana.

Carson and a companion, Gary M. Golden, 21, of Levittown, N.Y., waived grand jury indictments through their at-

Judge Anthony A. Giannini placed them on unsupervised probation because they have received overseas assignments from the Navy. Both are stationed at Quonset Point Naval Air Station. Both are petty officers third class.

They were arrested Sept. 30 in Providence by state narcotics agents who said a quantity of marijuana was found in Carson's car.

Johnny Carson's Firms Excused From Paying Accumulated Earnings Tax The accumulated-earnings

Washington (P) — The government Tuesday excused tax is 271/2% on the first corporations from paying a high tax on earnings they have accumulated by complying with President Nixon's request to hold the line on dividend payments during the wage-price freeze. The Treasury Department said it could supply no estimate of the potential revenue that might have been picked up if it had not made the ruling.

Officials said the Internal Revenue Service ruling is designed to help companies caught in a bind between the tax laws and Nixon's request for a holddown on dividend payments.

Traditionally, the so-called accumulated earnings tax has brought the Treasury comparatively little revenue. Normally, officials said, corporations simply plow most of their accumulated earnings into increased dividend payments and escape paying the tax.

$100,000 of accumulated earnings and 381/2% above the amount. The IRS said the ruling ap-piles only to earnings accumulated that might have been paid out as increased dividends during the 90-day freeze, which ends Nov. 13.

Technically, it applies to corporations with tax years ending June 30, July 30 and Aug. 31. These dates encompass dividend payments during the freeze because accumulated earnings subject to the tax can be reduced by a corporation if a dividend increase is paid three months after a tax year closes. The IRS said the decision comes into play when a company "permits its earnings and profits to accumulate beyond the reasonable needs of the business" as a result of not increasing dividends.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4, if the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper lett-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers lett to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
